A: CPA firm audit reports falsify the final balance of all accrual related accounts including assets (like accounts receivable), and liabilities (like accounts payable). Along with falsifying the final balance of all accrual related accounts, they also falsify the final cash balance by that same net amount, times minus one. So, in effect, they embezzle, every single year, the total value of their accrual related accounts. Some years the total (life-to-date) embezzlement goes up, and some years the total (life-to-date) embezzlement goes down. PDF page 10 of 20 shows the proper GAAP accounting. GAAP is "Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (USA)." As of Thursday 10/03/2025, I am (finally) awaiting a ruling by one of the many State CPA Boards of Accounting (BOA) that is investigating my complaints against CPA firms, and entities. Below, dates are 12/31/1999, because I believe that this fraud (that I call Hide-Bezzle) started in the 20th century, and that it is ongoing today.
